Personal Profile

I am a dedicated graduate with strong organizational and logistical skills. I achieved 5 GCSEs and gained valuable experience as a porter, where I honed my planning and workmanship. I completed a university course in clinical technology, deepening my understanding of science and technology. Most recently, I worked for a year as a domestic assistant, further developing my ability to work independently and manage deadlines while collaborating with colleagues.

I have always had an interest in working with computers so I found an opportunity to undergo a course in software development. I am currently undergoing the final stages of a digital skills bootcamp at JustIT, I am aiming to improve my skills in understanding different concepts such as python, scripts and coding. While also working on multiple projects for my portfolio. My personal Goal is to use the technical skills I learned from the course to become established in a role such as developer, technician or as an apprentice and work in an industry that I am very interested in.

Employment History

07/15-07/15 Porter BROWN AND ILLINGWORTH, Newcastle upon Tyne

It was part of a week-long student job experience program offered by my secondary school; it was unpaid but the purpose was giving the students a glimpse of hands-on experience in the workforce. For this job my position was being a porter which involved duties including:

- logistics & scheduling management
- house-keeping,
- moving small/medium and large objects from one location to another whilst being on my feet,
- following clear and precise instructions,
- dealing with customers and adhering to health and safety protocol.

After week my supervisors dubbed my performance as “a great asset” to my school teachers.

12/22-01/24 Domestic Assistant NHS, Newcastle upon Tyne

As a Domestic Assistant I was to Perform number of tasks such as:

- Cleaning on different areas of the hospitals such as wards, departments, operating theatres, laboratories, corridor, catering area, office or residential accommodation.
- Take out/change bins
- Refill soap and toilet paper dispensers
- On occasion help with serving patients food and water.
- Washing dishes

After working as a Domestic for a year, not only did it allow me to enhance and improve my skills my temporary job such as logistics and managements, also allowed me to learn new skills such as working independently while being able to work under specific deadlines strict or otherwise, while occasionally managing workloads with other domestics improving my interpersonal skills.

Furthermore, when I interact with patients or other colleagues, I always assist them with care and empathy while still being able to complete my tasks at a timely manner.

Interests, Hobbies and Achievements

Reading and Writing: I read from all media, usually reading about scientific and historical facts or information including documentaries. From time to time, I write notes in a notebook on the kind of issues I find interesting, putting my worldbuilding thoughts on paper. On occasion I read books, comics and manga's books, both physical books or online.

Gaming: In my spare time I like to play video games, the genre usually varies but I do favour role playing games. I enjoy walking as a form of exercise and healthy living.
